

VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY

REQUEST FOR RECONSIDERATION OF YOUR NEED-BASED STUDENT FINANCIAL AID ELIGIBILITY

Your need-based student financial aid review represents the results of a detailed analysis and careful evaluation of the application information that you have provided to this office by filing the PROFILE and the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). Vanderbilt is committed to the equitable treatment, which incorporates an evaluation of long-term capacity toWe do realize that errors could have b. Examples might include the following:

oneously or omitted (see the note that follows).

tepparent for at least 10 weeks.

e.

change in the number of college students in your family/household lly high non-consumer expenses for which no reimbursement will be f-pocket payment(s).

figures reported on your PROFILE or FAFSA forms and the actual d not be submitted for reconsideration since we will automatically tax returns we requested from you are received and analyzed.

1. Differences between the nationally accepted methodology used for awarding institutional funds and the mandated federal methodology used for awarding limited federal assistance.
2. Aid offers from other colleges and universities, whether those offers are based on need or merit/honor.
3. Meritorious achievements and scholastic abilities/accomplishments of the student.
4. Discretionary spending patterns or chosen lifestyle of the parent(s) and/or student.
5. Consumer indebtedness (past or present) of the family.

